IMPACT SEARGENT CIMINO

The statistics for all crime in Citrus Heights is down from last year at this time, with the exception of DUIs, which are up. Officer Smith described the situations for the two shooting that occurred this last week in Citrus Heights. He also explained that law for shoplifting doesn't allow the police to arrest anyone taking less than $995, no matter how many times they do it. The same is true for arresting someone for drugs because it has been lowered to a misdemeanor they are released.

- A. PROGRAM/PRESENTATION - CITRUS HEIGHTS HOMELESS NAVIGATOR, GABRIELLA YOST
- Ms. Yost grew up in Sacramento, attending St. Francis High School and Sacramento State University. She has a passion for helping people and has chosen to do it through non-profit organizations. She worked first in a group home and has spent the last three years as the homeless navigator for Rancho Cordova. Information she imparted:
1. There are approximately 275 homeless persons in Citrus Heights, very few commit crimes.
 2. Her job is to assess needs and provide resources and services.
 3. She works closely with the police, San Juan School District and housing authority, HART, and other volunteer organizations.
 4. The program is funded by federal grants, local government, and fundraising.
 5. Each client is different; each has a story.
 6. She goes out daily to meet with clients and her work is not complete until they are off the street.
 7. The hardest part of her job is having more clients than services.
 8. The biggest need from the community is for volunteers for outreach projects (example – haircuts).
 9. She doesn't know how the Sacramento County's program for setting up homeless camps will affect Citrus Heights.
